Hoover Sweeps Contested Seats To Convention

ELEVEN DISPUTED VOTES AWARDED BY G. O. P. BOARD

Georgia Next in Line of Hearings; First Day Sees Quick Decisions; Many Fights To Be Aired

FLORIDA BATTLE BROUGHT TO END

Negro's Plea Due for Settlement as Result of Louisiana Case Being Up for Decision.

Kansas City, Mo., June 4.—(P)—Bowling over opposition without a setback, Herbert Hoover picked up 11 votes in the republican convention today as the national committee, sitting as a jury, got down to the hearing of contests involving nearly 70 delegates from southern states.

Not only did the committee place on the temporary convention roll all of the nine Hoover pledged delegates from Florida and two from Florida whose credentials had been challenged, but it paved the way for detroning Georgia W. Bean, national committeeman for 16 years and the federal patronage "boss" in Florida.

As the Florida delegation will select its new national committeeman, it appeared certain tonight that, barring a reversal, Bean would lose his post, and that Glen H. Skipper, of Miami, who led the fight against him and who turned Bean's place as a delegate delegate pledged to Hoover, would take over the party reins in the state.

Florida Is First.—Setting out to referee before the end of the week all of the factional disputes, which as usual have cropped up in the south, the national committee first took up those from Florida, postponing for a day or two judgment in the important controversies centering around the entire delegations from Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas. In each of these three states, one set of contestees has been lined up for Hoover, with the opposition states classed generally as pro-Lowden or pro-Dawes.

The Florida disputes aired and decided today involved all of the delegation from that state except the lone convention representative from the third district. The other contest disposed of during the day which had attracted less attention, affected the two convention seats from the first Kentucky district.

Hoover Scores Again.—Here again Hoover scored a victory. The delegates instructed for him recognized, giving him a solid delegation of 29 from the Blue Grass state. No one appeared to press the claims of two rival states, and the Hoover pair obtained a quick decision, without a committee roll call.

In the votes on the Florida contests, taken behind closed doors, Chairman Butler, the former Massachusetts senator and close friend of President Coolidge, voted with Bean, who never has been looked on as friendly to Hoover's candidacy. So did Charles D. Hiles, national committeeman from New York, who favors Coolidge's re-nomination and has not given up hope that it can be accomplished.

More than 20 of the 196 committee members were not present or represented by proxies, the vote on the seating of the Hoover pledged "big four" from Florida being 46 to 37, the count

JAILED MAN HAS NO RIGHT TO SUE IN FALSE ARREST

Washington, June 4.—(P)—Robert W. Brown, of Norfolk, Va., was refused a review by the supreme court today to test out his right to recover from Cuno H. Rudolph and J. Francis Bell damages for his alleged illegal commitment in connection with lunacy proceedings.

He asserted that Rudolph and Bell, as commissioners of the District of Columbia, had illegally caused his arrest, and had improperly held him in the government insane asylum before beginning lunacy proceedings. He was liberated after remaining in the hospital 33 months when on habeas corpus proceedings he was declared by a jury of sound mind. Counsel for Rudolph and Bell were sustained in the lower courts on the theory that public officials cannot be held liable in damages for mistakes made or errors of judgment in the performance of their official duties.

COURT REVERSES HIGHWAY BOARD IN MILEAGE FIGHT

Officials Enjoined by Circuit Judge From Allotting Additional Stretch of 7 Miles.

Louisville, Ga., June 4.—(Special).—The state highway department has no authority to allocate any additional road mileage in Georgia, Judge R. N. Hardeman of the Jefferson county circuit court ruled in an injunction decision rendered here today. The court issued an order restraining the board from building an additional route in Richmond and Burke counties.

The decision was made when the court ruled on a petition for a permanent injunction against the highway board sought by W. B. Marks and other citizens of Richmond and Burke counties to enjoin the department from abandoning the McBean highway route between Augusta and Waynesboro and constructing a new route, known as the "Peach Orchard route," for a distance of seven miles between the two cities.

While Judge Hardeman held that the highway board had the authority to abandon or select highway routes under the state-aid highway system, the substitution of routes in this instance should not be effected.

The seven-mile stretch of highway—known locally as "Seven-Mile Stretch"—would have connected the Peach Orchard route with State route number 24. The petitioners in opposing substitution of this road, contended that the 6,300-mile limitations placed upon the state highway department in the construction of the state highway act, and that any additional construction of new routes would be in violation of the state law.

Town Paying Included.—One of the main contentions of the state highway department was that the 6,300-mile limit had not yet been reached because the department considered paved streets in towns of 2,500 population or less did not come under the provisions of the state highway act. In this the court ruled to the contrary, declaring that in its opinion paved streets in towns of that population should be included in the state highway mileage.

EARLY START SEEN ON 'BOTTLE NECK'

Council Orders Advertisement of Plan To Establish Taxing Zone on Peachtree Street.

Probability that actual work on elimination of the "bottle neck" on Peachtree street between Baker and Ivy streets will be started this month loomed Monday following action of city council in instructing the construction department to advertise immediately establishment of a taxing zone to provide funds for the improvement.

Protest of Charles Howard Candler against the method of raising the money for the project was read in council along with several others and referred to the streets committee for consideration. The committee recommended the improvement, which contemplates taking 20 feet from the east side of the street from Baker to Ivy streets, after a lengthy public hearing at a meeting held last Thursday. Many of the property owners urged the proposed improvement on the grounds that the widening would furnish an 80-foot wide road from the very heart of the Atlanta business district to North avenue thus relieving traffic congestion to a marked degree.

Mr. Candler and several others declared the improvement is needed but declared that since the benefits would accrue to the entire city the project should be financed from general tax funds instead of by establishment of a taxing zone. Under the law, the intention to establish the zone must be advertised 10 days. Council will act on the proposal definitely at its next meeting July 18, according to Charles L. Chosewood, chairman of the streets committee of city council.

Councilman Harry York and other members of the sixth ward delegation have joined in sponsoring the proposal.

Pre-Dry Days Are Recalled By Police Raid

Big Automobile and $2,000 Worth of Imported Liquors Seized.

Days before Georgia went dry were vividly recalled to detectives and reporters Monday night following seizure of a large automobile and a collection of imported liquors, said to be worth approximately $2,000.

The haul included 101 pints and 100 quarts. Represented in the assortment of wet goods were Canadian club, bacardi rum, a number of brands of rye, and a little gin. The stage of the raid was set at 52 Fifteenth street, N. E., participants in the scene were Call Officers W. D. Cartwright and P. L. Higgins, members of the vice squad, a woman, Mrs. Louise Norton, a vicious looking German police dog, and a mysterious party whose name is being withheld.

The mystery man or woman tipped off the officers that the liquor was packed in a private garage on Fifteenth street. When Cartwright and Higgins arrived at the scene they were met by Mrs. Norton, who told them that they could make no search without a search warrant and then turned the police dog loose in the yard to see if that her ultimatum was carried out.

Baffled for the time being, one of the officers kept watch on the place while the other went to a phone to call up the vice squad and obtain the necessary warrant. Within a few minutes members of what the police call the "wrecking crew" arrived and the search for the liquor was under way. Mrs. Norton is being held at the Fower under $500 bond, and the liquor is being held at the police station.

PAY WARD OFFER GIVEN COMMITTEE

Finance Board Will Consider Placing $100,000 in June Sheet and Also Plan for Bond Issue.

Establishment of a pay ward to be operated in conjunction with Grady hospital was placed definitely in the hands of the finance committee of city council at the regular semi-monthly meeting of council Monday.

A $3,000,000 bond issue proposal one of the features of which is to provide $200,000 for acceptance of the Jacob Elsas offer was referred to the committee for a report, and at the same time resolutions from the Atlanta Federation of Women's clubs endorsed a proposal to set up $100,000 in the June finance sheet to be in the Elsas tender were referred to the committee.

Alternative Offer.—Under council's action, the finance committee will have the choice of approving the bond issue plan or setting up the $100,000 in the June finance sheet, which Councilman Wiley L. Moore, of the seventh ward, chairman, announced will be ready for action of council at its session June 18.

The plan to set the money up in the June sheet was preferred by proponents of the project because actual construction can be begun much sooner and Mr. Elsas, who has insisted on early action on his proposal, can be assured that the city will take immediate steps to accept it.

Additions to the proposed bond issue were made Monday when Alderman Claude Buchanan, of the eighth ward, added $1,000,000 for a municipal auditorium, and $400,000 for an addition to Henry Grady high school. Other allocations provide $300,000 for police headquarters; $150,000 for a new junior high school building in the southeastern section of the city; $250,000 for park improvements; $250,000 for new buildings at Battle Hill sanitarium, and $300,000 for library improvements.

Sent to Committee.—The entire bond issue proposal was referred to the finance committee for recommendation.

Mayor I. N. Ragdale, Mr. Moore, all members of the hospitals and charities committee of city council, the police committee and many others are unequivocally on record favoring the pay ward for Grady in order to "place within the reach of citizens of moderate means modern and adequate hospital facilities at a reasonable cost."

Establishment of the pay ward would relieve the number of charity patients treated at Grady at present, according to officials, by making it possible for persons of moderate means to obtain hospital benefits without having to pay high prices for the service.

NOTHING GAINED WITH DRY PLANK

Both Parties Will Find It Best To Put Prohibition Up to Congressional Contests.

BY SAM W. SMALL, Special Staff Correspondent.

Washington, June 4.—(Special).—The prohibitionists in the north and west are fully 90 per cent republicans. They will be satisfied by whatever law enforcement plank the republican national convention adopts, and will vote the republican ticket when election day rolls around.

The drys in the south are almost wholly democrats, and as they are democrats more than they are drys, 90 per cent of them will vote the democratic ticket.

Consequently it would appear to be waste of time and hot air for the platform makers of both national conventions to give audience to the "demands" of the professional pig agitators who are to flock to Kansas City and Houston.

The proper and productive field for those drys is back at home in their congressional districts. In them the real fight for the permanence or the modification of the prohibition enforcement law is to be fought, and lost or won.

The rank and file of both parties is split almost everywhere on the issue of prohibition, and no platform declaration can cure the divisions.

Leaders Resist the Issue.—The wiser and experienced leaders of the democratic party are strongly opposed to any introduction of this controversial and divisive prohibition issue into the party's national platform.

The subject boils down to this: What good would be accomplished by a transitory convention declaration? Last August, in a widely syndicated newspaper contribution, Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, whose views in favor of the prohibition policy are notoriously orthodox, and who will very likely be the permanent chairman of the Houston convention, said: "I do not favor any proposal to make prohibition a predominant issue in the next democratic national convention. Any attempt to do so will accentuate and emphasize factional-

MAN SHOTS SELF AS GOVERNOR'S CAR PASSES BY BENCH

Augusta, Ga., June 4.—(P)—A middle-aged man registering at local hotels as J. R. Battle, of Miami Shores, Miami, Fla.; Birmingham, Ala., and Columbus, Ga., within the past few weeks, tonight was found wounded. Physicians said fatally, on a bench in the park at Union station here.

Dr. Henry Shaw who, with Governor L. G. Hardman in his car, as passing the station, said he saw a flash of a pistol and heard the report, and immediately went to investigate. He found the man pointing a pistol in his hand.

The man registered at a hotel here on April 21 with a companion who was listed as E. M. Evans, of Miami. Evans left about three weeks ago, but Battle remained here, moving from one hotel to another.

On his person was found a letter from San Antonio, Texas, but most of it had been torn away, and nothing remained to identify the writer.

AUSTRALIAN PLANE IS FIRST TO FLY UNCHARTED ROUTE

Kingsford-Smith and Companions Land After 3,138-Mile Over-Water Hop at 8:23 P. M.

ONLY 1,800 MILES FROM AUSTRALIA

Time of Voyage Is 34 Hours, 33 Minutes From Hawaii, 62 Hours, 1 Minute From United States.

BY MORRIS HEDSTRON, United News Special Correspondent.

Suva, Fiji Islands, June 5.—(Tuesday).—Bound from the mainland of the United States to Australia, the Fokker monoplane Southern Cross roared out of the tropical skies to the north of Suva and landed here today.

It came to earth at 2:23 p. m. Tuesday, local time, 6:23 p. m. Monday, Pacific coast time, or 10:23 p. m. Monday, eastern daylight time, or 8:23 Atlanta time.

The elapsed time for the flight from the island of Kauai was 34 hours 33 minutes.

The fliers were greeted as they landed at Suva by Sir Eyre Hutson, governor of the Fiji.

Captain Kingsford-Smith and his crew of three reported the Southern Cross in perfect condition as they stepped from the cockpit and surveyed the ship.

Thred, But Happy.—The welcome given them by the thousands of natives from Viti Levu and surrounding islands, and the 3,800 whites, was wild and tumultuous. "We're tired and sleepy, but in fine physical condition otherwise," Kingsford-Smith told the United News.

A perfect south sea island day greeted the four adventurers. The plane was wholly undamaged in the landing, which was somewhat difficult due to the narrow confines of the improvised airport.

Arrival of Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions of the Australian flight marked the end of the longest oceanic hop ever attempted.

Only One Landing Place.—Since leaving Barking Sands on the islands of Kauai, Hawaii, early Sunday, the plane had covered a distance of 3,138 miles, all of which was over water.

Only once during her record-breaking flight were Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith and his companions, Charles T. P. E. Lyall, pilot, Harry Lyon, navigator, and James Warner, radio operator, within close proximity to ground on which they could make an emergency landing.

That was when they passed near the Phoenix Islands, mere dots on the wide expanse of the Pacific, in the early morning hours of today.

The rest of the time they were over the open ocean, confident in the ability of their plane to make the flight and

COURT OF CLAIMS CANNOT REVIEW WAR TAX PLEAS

Washington, June 4.—(P)—In a decision which will control the right of appeal in a large number of demands for the refund of taxes collected during the war period, the supreme court held today that the court of claims was without jurisdiction to review the action of the commissioner of internal revenue in cases arising before the creation of the board of tax appeals.

The Williamsport Wire Rope company, of Williamsport, Pa., insisted, as have many other corporations, that under abnormal conditions prevailing during the war period, it was entitled to a special assessment, and when the commissioner of internal revenue refused to make it, sought relief in the court of claims.

Russia Will Send Expedition to Franz Josef Land After Message Is Caught by Amateur.

Moscow, Russia, June 4.—(P)—Russian preparations for an expedition to seek the missing dirigible Italia took a turn today when the Noble relief commission decided to send searchers by ship and airplanes to Franz Josef Land, a desolate archipelago east of Spitzbergen.

The decision to search Franz Josef Land grew out of the receipt of a message by the relief commission from a radio amateur at Voznesensk in North Dvinsk province bordering Archangel who he had picked up what appeared to be an appeal for help directly from the Italia.

Message Garbled.—"Italia Noble Franz Josef S O S S O S S O S S. Terri Teno Ehu."

No explanation was given of the last three words of the message, which may have been garbled in receipt. The radio amateur said that he re-

HORNADY BACKERS CLASH ENLIVEN TO RALLY FRIDAY POLITICAL RALLY

Undaunted by a decision upholding Mrs. Charles Goodman, leaders of the faction battling to seat Mrs. John R. Hornady as president of the Atlanta Woman's club Monday laid plans for a Hornady rally, called for 3 o'clock Friday afternoon in the D. A. R. chapter house on Fifteenth street.

The superior court ruling of last Saturday, renewing an order in favor of Mrs. Goodman as president, appeared Monday to have widened the rift between political groups at the club.

A bill of exceptions to be filed against the decision of Judge John D. Humphries was being prepared Monday by Attorney James A. Branch, of Hornady counsel, for presentation this week. This protest will carry the dispute to the Georgia supreme court for review of the lower court's finding.

At the go-together meeting Friday, friends of Mrs. Hornady will plan a legal campaign in behalf of her claim for club leadership, it was announced. The Hornady leaders who conferred Monday were chosen by Mrs. Hornady a fortnight ago to assist with details of her campaign. It was decided to issue a general call, requesting all supporters of the Hornady candidacy to be present at Friday's meeting, which will be held over a tea.

The Woman's club is now administered by Mrs. Goodman, who was placed in office a week after the stormy meeting of May 14, having petitioned superior court for an injunction prohibiting interference. This plea was temporarily granted by Judge Humphries, who continued the order last Tuesday following a two-day hearing on the injunction.

By HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
A series of charges and counter charges brought a political rally to an abrupt close and passage of blows between supporters of Clarke Donaldson, former first assistant in the construction department, and those of William A. Hansell, chief, was narrowly averted.

The meeting was held at 28 Capitol avenue under auspices of the Ladies Loyal Orange lodge, Robert E. Lee camp, No. 208, and provided a climax in the present contest for the race of chief of construction of the city of Atlanta. Voters will nominate a chief and 32 other officials in the primary Wednesday.

But for the timely adjournment of the meeting by Mrs. Frances Johnson, presiding, spectators declared blows would have resulted.

Aspirants for the post of chief of construction continued to dominate the political arena at three other meetings Monday night—at the Smilie and Tenth Street schools and Kirkwood pharmacy.

Printup Interrupts.
The crisis came while W. A. Jackson was speaking in behalf of Mr. Hansell. He was interrupted by Neil Printup when he challenged anyone in the audience to cite failure on the part of the chief to follow explicitly instructions of the mayor and council in administration of affairs of the office.

Chief Hansell declined to put some cinders on Evans drive directly in front of my door, although city council had approved a resolution directing him to do so," Mr. Printup declared in taking the floor. "The work was done at a later date, and the street finally was paved by Fulton county. The chief said he had to await delivery of a dozen new trucks to haul enough cinders to lay a passable street for one block."

"There are other streets in Atlanta which must be looked after also," Mr. Jackson declared. "The work was done just as soon as was humanly possible."

J. E. Cumbee, a resident of the second ward, attacked Mr. Jackson for working on an "hour-basis" for the construction department and in "employ of Mr. Hansell while he held a position as an instructor in the Atlanta public schools."

During the disorder which followed, marked by hootings, Mrs. Johnson adjourned the meeting and dinner was served to the audience.

Holds Two Positions.
"It is not true that you hold your position as an instructor in engineering at a local high school and that at the same time you are employed by the construction department?" Mr. Cumbee asked.

"Yes," shouted Mr. Jackson. "I was competent to do the work, and arranged to do it on a part time basis. It was done well, and the city got value received for every dollar it paid me."

The interruptions came during Mr. Jackson's speech and after Mr. Donaldson had completed a stinging attack on a circular letter which Mr. Hansell has circulated to voters.

"The chief of construction admits he is a good hog-raiser in this letter," Mr. Donaldson began. "He claims that the dairy farm has been placed on a money making business under his administration. I'll bet if the truth were known, the city is spending a dollar for every gallon of milk that comes from it."

Expenditures Assailed.
"His campaign of ruthless expenditure has started the taxpayers of Atlanta on the road to higher taxes, and I predict that in the event of his election, the taxes will be raised. He cites a series of street paving projects, but the taxpayers had to pay for these through the baby bond plan. They were sponsored by supply dealers."

"I understand the chief has declared a holiday for Wednesday and all the 450 employees of the department will be free to politic. I charged it at a previous meeting where the mayor was present and neither the mayor nor the chief of construction denied it. The employees are now campaigning on the city's time."

"Several weeks ago, the department estimated that the Lloyd street sewer would cost approximately $200,000. A fund of $100,000 was set up from the sewer bond fund and the county was asked to contribute another $100,000. The county, evidencing, I believe, lack of confidence in his ability to estimate, asked that the city turn over its $100,000 to the county and let the county make the contract. The contract was awarded several days ago for a little over $100,000."

"The system of awarding contracts in the construction department is wrong. Under the present plan, an estimate is made of the work and all contractors know what the estimate is. They place bids accordingly."

Mr. Donaldson admits that the present organization is efficient, effective and honest. Mr. Jackson began in opening his address, which he did not write because of the adjournment of the meeting.

"He has promised to retain practically every one of them and in addition has promised scores of others jobs in the event of his election. He can not carry out his campaign promise without every person in this room knows it."

"The chief of construction is bonded to carry out the orders of the mayor and general council. Mr. Hansell has done that. If certain needed improvements are not made, the money has not been set up or counted. He has not directed that the work be done."

"We feel that the whole truth should be told about all matters pertaining to this race. It is a fact of which the Hansell organization is proud that the city dairy farm cleared $24,000 last year. This money which is several times the salary of the chief of construction was poured back into the coffers of the city."

Misrepresentation Charged.
"The opposition has declared that no building contractors, material men or others have contributed to its campaign fund. I can produce witnesses to prove that I was told that 27 have. Someone is misrepresenting the facts. I want to defend again the map which has been repeatedly attacked by the opposition. One opponent made a trip to Washington and came back to Atlanta and recommended a topographical map, the same map he is utilizing."

"Another thing, the opposition has refused to name a ticket up to this good hour. Someone who is expecting a job which has been promised in the event of his election is going to get stung."

Ben T. Huitt and his opponent, Cecil V. Whiddon, for the post of Alderman from the third ward; J. M. House, incumbent, and his opponent, A. A. Gilliam for alderman from the twelfth; J. Ben Daniel, Steve C. Glass, J. M. Pirkle and L. D. T. Quinby of their representatives for marshals; F. R. Florence, Marvin Rosne and R. A. McMurry for tax collector; R. C. Turner, incumbent, and H. Harrison for electrician, appeared in behalf of their respective candidacies.

Joseph Herman and Fred Stinchcomb, opponents for council from the fourth ward, were on the stump in support of candidacies. F. A. Hollingsworth, the third man in the triangular race, did not appear. The Smilie school meeting was held by Mr. Stinchcomb's friends.

J. Ira Harrelson and Hyman M. Morris, opponent's for the position of school commissioner from the ward also were present.

Saunders' Meeting.
William E. Saunders' friends, who are supporting him for reelection to council from the twelfth ward, staged the Kirkwood meeting. He is opposed by Thomas Jones.

Other ward contests are council fifth ward, in which James E. Bowden, incumbent, is opposed by Tom Morris, council sixth ward where Harry York, incumbent, is opposed by Thomas White; council tenth ward, in which W. Garland Cooper, incumbent, is opposed by Solon Johnson.

Three rallies are slated for tonight—by friends of Mr. Donaldson at the Crew street school; by friends of Mr. Bowden at Chestnut and Keeney streets, and by friends of Mr. Morris at Marietta and Ashby streets.

Mr. Donaldson announced that the meeting slated by his friends at the Kimball house for tonight has been called off and that all his friends have been invited to the Crew street meeting.

ANTI-JAP FEELING
SPREADS IN CHINA
Peking, China, June 4.—(AP)—An unconfirmed report from Mukden states that Wu Chun-Sheng, the governor of Heilunking province, who was wounded when a bomb was hurled this morning at the train of Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, has succumbed to his injuries. The condition of Mo Teh-Hui, who was secretary of agriculture and commerce in the Peking cabinet, was reported as serious.

No word has come as to the exact extent of the injuries of Marshal Chang. The former dictator was cut on the head when a bomb exploded but later was taken to his residence. A number of his body guard and gendarmes were killed and two cars of his special train were destroyed. Wu and Mo were in the car next to that of the ex-dictator of Peking.

Mukden dispatches from Japanese sources say that rumors have been spread among Chinese in the Manchurian capital blaming the Japanese for the outrage. Feeling against the subjects of the mikado is running high and many of the leading Japanese residents have taken refuge with the troops of their nation. One Japanese boy was stabbed by a Chinese and seriously wounded.

$10,000 free and clear; all past medical expenses (said by plaintiffs' counsel to average $2,000 for each woman); pension of $600 a year during disability; a counsel fee of $15,000 (to cover all cases); $4,500 for legal disbursements (to cover all cases).

MANY of our prospects, we find, are actually astonished when they learn that Packard Six prices are fully a third less than they first supposed.

Perhaps you, too, have not realized that Packard Six prices range from as low as $2275 at the factory—that the popular Five-Passenger Sedan lists at only $2285.

Packard Six motoring costs you no more than ordinary motoring. If you keep your car four

Why not let us estimate on the value of your present car as a down payment on your Packard? We will allow the highest price for which we can hope to sell it—and the balance can be paid on terms which you will find are very convenient. At present we can make prompt deliveries.

ERA OF INTENSIVE SELLING FORECAST

With America destined to be in midst of a new era—the era of merchandising—in less than ten years, industries as remote from manufacture and sale of products as the railroads will have merchandising experts for their presidents and smooth-talking salesmen as their main stock in trade.

This was the opinion voiced by Harrison Jones, executive vice president of the Coca-Cola company, before the monthly gathering of the Traffic club Tuesday in the Atlanta Athletic club.

"Competition, the most dominant factor in business today, is making the merchandising era inevitable," Mr. Jones stated. "Competing with each other, aside from parallel lines, are such elements, just in the infancy of their development, as truck transportation, passenger and air-mail lines, large lines under government subsidy, and all that the future can invent. Service in its broadest sense is the basis on which railroads will have to compete with each other and with outside factors."

Sale of Service.

"And this service will have to be sold to the traffic consumer, whether he be passenger or freight customer, by able salesmen. They day will come when the solicitor will be the legs on which the railroad will move and salesmen will dominate the transportation industry just as they sit at the head of retail and manufacturing businesses."

The Coca-Cola executive, whose company is one of the nation's largest purchasers of transportation, outlined the development of America, classifying the principal eras that have led up to the era of merchandising upon which he believes the country is now entering. With the pioneering days and early development of the nation, the people sought land, cultivated land, thought in terms of land and legislated in terms of land, Mr. Jones remarked. "This was the agricultural era, then came the transportation era, when development of our railroads and waterways attempted to solve the problem of carrying the crops of the land to the highest market centers. The industrial era was next and now we are taking the first steps in the merchandising era."

Competition Becoming Keener.

"Competition has become so keener that it is no longer principally directed between businesses of the same type, but every producer must compete with every other producer for the dollars in the pocket of the citizens. It is not enough that Coca-Cola's advertisement in the Saturday Evening Post may excel that of any other soft drink manufacturer, unless it can compete for the reader's interest with the advertisement of the Holmwood brewery in that edition, that company will get the dollars that might have been spent on Coca-Cola. It is no longer a question of making more shoes for feet to wear, but making more feet to consume the production of shoes."

Merchandising through salesmanship and advertising is therefore becoming the principal factor in industry, and it will apply to the transportation industry as well as any other. The American public has billions to spend for traveling in the next ten years. That is one of the markets in which the transportation salesmen will enter. Traveling breeds traveling, just as the taking of "hop" creates the habit. The hint to the railroads is to sell the American public traveling before it spends its money on other commodities."

According to Mr. Bell, the conversation began at 12:30 o'clock and lasted for three minutes. Mr. Bell stated that the connection was unusually clear. "I had no difficulty in recognizing my associate's voice over the telephone, and was even able to hear the Hamburg operators conversing in German," says Mr. Bell. The call from Hamburg was broadcast from the Azores to Round Brook, N. J., and Mr. Bell's voice was sent to Ireland by way of Newfoundland, and thence to Hamburg.

POLICE MYSTIFIED BY BOY'S SLAYING

Massillon, Ohio, June 4.—(P)—Authorities were without clues today in their efforts to solve the mysterious slaying of 17-year-old Lester Boyd, member of a prominent family of West Brookfield, a Massillon suburb.

Boyd was shot and killed last Saturday night near the home of a girl friend, Miss Ellen Fichter, 17, whom he had escorted home from a school party.

First theories that the youth might have been slain from jealousy were discounted by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Boyd, and Miss Fichter. There doesn't appear to be any

BODY OF NEGRO TAKEN BY MOB FOUND IN RIVER

Boonville, Mo., June 4.—(P)—The body of Ocie Williams, negro, kidnapped from officers early last Wednesday as he was being taken to jail at Marshall from Slater, where he had killed Romeo Logan, another negro, was found in the Missouri river here yesterday.

Williams had been handcuffed and his feet bound. There were no indications that he had been slain before being thrown into the river, and it was believed he was drowned by his abductors, a group of 12 armed and masked men whom officers said were negroes.

plausible motive for the slaying," police announced.

Boyd had come only a short distance from the Fichter home when he was shot.

Local Student Faced Death Twice in Turbulent Russia

KRAMER ESCAPED TO POLAND, THEN CAME TO U. S.

BY HELEN AND OLIVE PARISH.

Narrowly escaping death on two occasions—first at the hands of Cossack bandits, and then by bolshevik soldiers—and crossing the Russian border into Poland without a passport, only a few of the harrowing adventures which Maxwell S. Kramer, member of the junior class at the Atlanta Southern Dental college, has managed to cram into his 24 years.

Mr. Kramer, whose Russian name is Dimitri Krowitz, was born in Odessa, Russia, and lived in that chaotic country through the Kerensky regime and the bolshevik revolution.

His first escape from death occurred when, as a lad of 15, he spent the summer months in a field near Odessa, delivering rations to 700 student farmworkers.

According to Mr. Kramer, "a guard of five bolshevik soldiers watched over every 100 men. One afternoon we were surprised by a troop of armed horsemen who rode up with the red flag. They called the peasants and students to the side of the field, and asked us if we were in sympathy with the bolshevik regime."

Massacre of Workmen.

"In terror, we said we were, and when a number of them had surrounded 500 of us, they changed their minds to that of Cossack contra-revolutionaries. In a few minutes more than half of the workmen had been shot down and the others were running for their lives." Mr. Kramer was pursued by a Cossack officer who shot him in the leg and left him for dead. The youth lost consciousness and when he came to he was being piled up with the dead bodies. The brigands having gone, he was taken to a hospital, where he speedily recovered. He believes that he was the only one of the 500 to escape with his life.

Mr. Kramer's second narrow escape came about a year later, when the bolsheviks were making their power felt throughout Russia.

While he was living near Odessa, at the home of his brother-in-law, the bolsheviks took possession of the city and commanded his brother-in-law to bring all his available money to headquarters. Accompanied by the lad Dimitri, who was then only 16 years old, the brother-in-law carried 25,000 rubles in gold to the authorities, who began firing at the pair. Kramer's brother-in-law was killed by the third shot, but the lad was not wounded and escaped, according to Mr. Kramer, because "the authorities did not deem me worthy of pursuit."

Together with his sister Kramer left Odessa, and they made their way to the Polish border. Not having a passport, he showed some town papers to the guard, who, being able neither to read nor write, allowed them to pass.

Arriving in this country in January, 1925, Mr. Kramer went to Cleveland, and then to the University of Cincinnati, where he taught German for a year. He plans to graduate next year at the local dental college.

Mr. Kramer next went to Germany for Cleveland, where he will teach German during the summer, and plans to return early in the fall to resume his dental studies.

Charges Probed.

On Election Eve.

Tampa, Fla., June 4.—(P)—While authorities continued their investigation of charges that registration books had been padded with more than 2,000 fictitious or illegal names, Hillsborough county's electorate tonight prepared to march to the polls tomorrow to cast their ballot in the state democratic primary election.

The list of alleged bogus names to be stricken from the registration records was brought to more than 200 tonight with the removal of 35 additional names during the day. County Solicitor R. E. L. Chaney declared he would continue his investigation of the alleged fraudulent registrations even while the voting was in progress.

Major interest here in the election centered on the gubernatorial race in which Doyle Carlton, of Tampa, is a candidate, although there has been spirited campaigning among candidates for the office of sheriff and other county positions. Candidates and political observers predicted the heaviest voting in history would be recorded before the polls close late tomorrow. Sheriff's deputies will be on duty at many of the county's 72 precincts—the largest number for any county in the state—but little disorder is anticipated.

Partly cloudy weather was predicted for tonight and tomorrow with probable thunderstorms tomorrow afternoon.

"HORNED ZEBRA" ROAMS STREETS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, June 4.—(P)—The apparition of a "horned zebra" wandering over leaves of the residential district near Audubon park tonight startled various citizens and resulted in the capture of the strange animal.

It was returned to the Audubon park zoo, from which it had escaped, after it was lassoed with an automobile tow-line and hauled unwillingly through the streets. Zoo authorities said the animal, an African eland, broke out of its pen during a thunderstorm.

Wealthy Merchant Killed, Robbery Believed Motive

Seale, Ala., June 4.—(P)—Robbery is believed to have been the motive for the slaying of William W. Champion, 46, wealthy merchant and real estate dealer, whose body was found near here last night after he had been missing for several days.

Champion had been shot through the head. Officers said the lad had been advised a sum of money he had in his pockets when he disappeared was missing when the body was found.

Du-Rose Moore, one of DeKalb's leading citizens and superintendent of the Sunday school for the past 40 years, has arranged for the musical program.

An old-fashioned southern dinner will be served on the grounds by the

W. W. MAY DIES SUDDENLY IN ROME

Rome, Ga., June 4.—(Special).—W. W. May, president of the Southern Cooperative Foundry company, died suddenly Saturday afternoon following a stroke of apoplexy suffered at his home on Stephens street. He had been in bad health for some time, but was not confined to his bed and at the time he suffered the stroke he was walking about in the yard. Funeral services were held Monday morning.

Mr. May, who was born January 27, 1882, near Murfreesboro, Tenn., was one of the pioneer foundrymen of Rome, having been one of the founders of the Southern Cooperative foundry, which he assisted in organizing after having been connected with the old Rome Foundry Works for 14 years. He had secured his training in the business at Cartersville, Georgia.

He was vice president and director of the Southern Cooperative Foundry company for 16 years, when he succeeded to the presidency on the death of the late Captain John J. Sear. While serving as president of the company and as vice president, Mr. May served also as superintendent of the foundry, and it was recently said of him in "Iron Age" that he was the only president of a foundry who actually operated its cupola.

For the past 20 years Mr. May had been an active member of the First Christian church. At the time of his death he was chairman of the official board of the church, and had been an elder for 17 years. He was also one of its trustees. A devout Christian, he was known as a generous and charitable one, and is said to have never turned a deaf ear to any man in need.

As superintendent of the foundry and as president of the company he was greatly loved by every man who worked for him.

Mr. May is survived by his wife, who was formerly Miss Effie Taylor.

EMMETT DAVIDSON, LOCAL FIREMAN, DIES

Emmett A. Davidson, 1265 Sells avenue, S. W., died Monday afternoon at a private hospital. He is survived by his widow; two stepsons, Stuart and Francis Tomlin; three sisters, Mrs. A. D. Chandler, Bishop; Mrs. J. I. Finch, Atlanta, and Mrs. J. P. Aylor, of Washington, D. C., and a brother, R. M. Davidson, of Atlanta.

Mr. Davidson was born and reared in Atlanta and had been a member of the Atlanta fire department for the past 10 years, having recently been promoted to the rank of lieutenant.

At the outbreak of the world war he enlisted in the twenty-first engineers, and during his 18 months' service in France saw action in three major battles, St. Mihiel, Toul sector, and the Meuse Argonne, being wounded and gassed. He was active in affairs of the fire department, and was instrumental in getting a wage increase for the firemen in 1926.

S O S CALLS SPUR SEARCH FOR NOBILE

received the message on a 33.35 wave, corresponding to the Italia's radio station.

Possibility Seen.

While there was no further message to support belief that this may have been the Italia broadcasting directly, the commission was convinced of the possibility that General Nobile had come down at Franz Josef Land since all wind conditions at the time of the Italia's disappearance 10 days ago would support the theory that the dirigible easily might have been blown toward the uninhabited archipelago.

The exact time that the message was supposed to have been heard by the amateur was not stated, but the commission first heard of it last night.

S O S MESSAGES
HEARD FREQUENTLY.

Stockholm, Sweden, June 4.—(AP)—Radio messages in English and Italian, repeated frequently, were heard at midnight tonight by amateurs at Gavle, Uppsala, Naerum and Trellborg. The messages said:

"Italia Nobile S O S Kings Bay East."
A message finished with "Radio Bordeaux."

It is inferred that unless a hoax was being perpetrated, the dirigible Italia, lost in the arctic since May 25, was trying to inform the world that it was able only to hear Bordeaux.

Somewhere received the message on wave lengths varying from 800 to 1,000 meters.

HOBBY SAILS NORTH ON NOBILE SEARCH.

Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, June 4.—(AP)—The sealing vessel Hobby, which arrived here today with Lieutenant Leifow, Norwegian aviator, sailed for the north this evening.

The weather is improving but Lieutenant Holm said that a continuation of the northwest wind would press ice floes toward the north coast of the archipelago and make flying conditions difficult. He intends, however, to search all available ground for traces of General Umberto Nobile and the crew of the dirigible Italia.

Captain Riiser-Larsen, who is following Lieutenant Holm on another steamer and bringing another plane, will fly north from here. The lieutenant hopes that the captain will join him so that they may coordinate their efforts.

Captain Riiser-Larsen is due here Thursday.

The Hobby must return here within 10 days at the latest as the vessel is under charter to take an American hunting party organized by a Mrs. Boyd to Franz Josef Land. If General Nobile and his men are not found by that time, the Norwegian aviator will transfer their headquarters to the ice breakers Braaguan.

The Hobby carries no radio and unless she can find the Braaguan, the result of Lieutenant Holm's efforts will not be known until the Hobby returns here.

build was accentuated by the right-fitting brown knicker and high laced boots she wore when she stepped from the plane here this afternoon. Her close-cut, light hair was tousled by the wind for she wore no hat.

The fliers themselves have said little about their plans other than that they expected to take the first favorable moment for their start for the other side and that they will land in any convenient port in England with Southampton as the most probable.

Wilmer Stultz, who was the first pilot of the late Mrs. Frances W. Grayson, who is known as an expert with heavy planes, is also his own navigator and radio operator.

Each of his companions, he said, was qualified to relieve him at the stick for brief intervals necessary for observation or communication.

SOUTHERN CROSS LANDS AT SUVA

in the gasoline supply to hold out to the end.

The big plane made a graceful landing. Have Completed 5,546 Miles.

In the hop completed today and the one from the Oakland airport to Honolulu last week, the Southern Cross covered a distance of 5,546 miles over the Pacific.

With the arrival of the four airmen here, a 1,795-mile sea flight to Brisbane, Australia, and a 500-mile hop over the continent to Sydney lay ahead of them before completion of their air voyage.

Upon arriving at Sydney they will have covered a total distance of almost 8,000 miles.

Nearly 11 days ahead of the fastest time ever made by ocean liners between California and Suva, the Southern Cross survived the danger of tropical storms and other hazards, which caused aviation experts to brand the venture as suicidal.

Plane Fights Storm.

The crew of the Southern Cross had repaired short circuits which threatened to disable the engine and turned up motors which Warner reported were "sputtering and spitting fire" until they were again brought in perfect order.

Captain Kingsford-Smith, with the skill of a master aviator, turned the nose of the Southern Cross sharply upward when a violent rain and wind squall during the morning.

The plane climbed rapidly from an altitude of less than 1,000 feet until it was cruising more than 8,000 feet above the Pacific and out of reach of the fury of the storm. Then, with the storm area passed, Captain Kingsford-Smith brought the Southern Cross again to the lower altitude, where the greatest speed could be made with a minimum use of fuel.

Radio Keeps Up Hopes.

"It's just like riding up and down in an elevator," Warner radioed in describing the maneuvers by which the Southern Cross successfully dodged the storm.

Anxious eyes of the crew were fixed on the indicators of the gasoline tanks during the final stages of the flight. Always there flashed out this reassuring word to those waiting eagerly on both shores of the Pacific and its islands for word from the Southern Cross:

"The gasoline supply is ample. We will make it safely." When the Southern Cross passed near the Phoenix Islands where an emergency landing had been charted, the radio messages gave no indication of any temptation to turn aside and play safe by stopping.

At that time the Southern Cross had covered more than 2,000 miles, a distance nearly as great as the flight from the Honolulu to Honolulu.

Be Line to Goal.

But the crew kept the Southern Cross headed resolutely southward for another thousand miles and more of the journey was covered before they traversed or ever attempted.

Throughout the long hours of the flight, the four adventurers were never pessimistic and they accepted the adversities of storm and temporarily unfavorable winds with good nature.

Time after time Lyon reported to ships in the Pacific as he checked his bearings with them:

"I'm guiding a straight course for the northern end of the Fiji Islands. The Southern Cross is traveling almost in a line toward its goal."

Repeated checkings showed only minor deviations from the course, and the crew quickly corrected them.

"Will greatly appreciate roped enclosure and policemen to watch the plane," said a message signed by Ulin, said the Southern Cross sailed unerringly on its way.

Crowds Gather Early.

The cricket field here was cleared of trees and telephone poles and electric light standards to remove as far as possible all landing hazards.

"Thanks for improvements at recreation ground," Ulin acknowledged when told by wireless of the improvements at the recreation ground which had been turned into a landing field.

While the Southern Cross was still hundreds of miles out at sea, the population of the island of Viti Levu, on which Suva is located, began flocking to the landing field.

It was an event the like of which the island had never before experienced, and may not again for many years.

The possibility of a shortage of fuel, which caused grave fear for the safety of the Southern Cross during the latter part of the flight to Honolulu, was mentioned only casually during the hop to Suva.

The gasoline capacity of the plane was increased in Honolulu until it carried more than 1,400 gallons on its takeoff from Hawaii.

Favorable trade winds prevailed for a major portion of the flight and the Southern Cross sped on its way with a minimum use of gasoline.

The Southern Cross took off from Oakland airport, Oakland, Calif., at 8:52 a. m., Pacific coast standard time, last Thursday, and landed at Wheeler field on the island of Oahu 27 hours and 28 minutes later.

Saturday 12:25 p. m. Pacific coast time, the Southern Cross took off from Wheeler field on the island of Oahu, and landed at Barking Sands, on the island of Kauai. The Barking Sands airport afforded a longer runway for the takeoff with the heavy load of fuel than was available at Wheeler field.

Most Perilous Flight.

At 5:20 a. m. Honolulu time, Sunday, the Southern Cross left Barking Sands.

It was the fifth plane to complete the long flight between the mainland and the Hawaiian Islands, but the first that ever pointed its nose southward to Suva for another flight even more perilous than the first.

Several hundred miles out from Barking Sands a short circuit threatened the wiring of the plane. It was quickly corrected.

Rain squalls were encountered at intervals Sunday afternoon and night, and once the right motor faltered for several anxious moments.

"You should have seen Ulin's eyes bulge out when he thought that motor was going dead," said Warner in describing the incident by radio.

VITI LEVU ISLE LARGE AS HAWAII

Washington, June 4.—(AP)—Suva, goal of the aviators in the monoplane Southern Cross on the second leg of their trans-Pacific flight to Australia, is situated on an island that fails to meet popular conception to what a South sea island should be.

The island was described as "neither a tiny, low-lying atoll, nor a jagged volcanic peak, nor two rising from the tropic seas. It is half as large as the state of Massachusetts, and is the greatest land within an equal distance of the South Pacific." It is a sweep of ocean all the way from the Alaskan peninsula around to the coast of Mexico.

"Viti Levu is more than 4,000 square miles in extent and is almost exactly the size of Hawaii, largest island of the Hawaiian group. It is more than 75 miles long and 50 broad and contains a mountain range with peaks 4,000 to 5,000 feet high. It is fringed by a Pacific island with a river 50 miles long, which is navigable by small boats."

As for the city of Suva itself, "it is a great Pacific what Honolulu is to the north. It is the chief station of the Canada-Australia cable and a regular port of call for mail steamers from Vancouver to Sydney."

LOSE WHOLE DAY
IN ONE SECOND.

New York, June 4.—(AP)—The fastest hop of the Southern Cross on its flight from Honolulu to Suva, Fiji Islands, was made when only a short distance from Honolulu on one side and Walter L. Cohen, negro comptroller of customs at New Orleans, on the other.

Highway Officials
LOSE COURT FIGHT

dividual members of the highway board from constructing the additional seven-mile stretch of highway, the court specifically held that the department had authority to designate only a maximum of 6,300 miles under the state-aid system, and further ruled that mileage in towns of 2,500 and less population was included in the provisions of the act of 1922.

Court Challenged.

At the hearing in March on the petition to make permanent the temporary injunction granted Marks and others the highway department questioned the right of the department to make permanent the temporary injunction, contended the department had the right to abandon the McLean route and relocate and build an entirely new road between Waynesboro and Augusta. The court held it had jurisdiction because John Phillips, one of the members of the highway board, with Chairman John Holder and Commissioner Bennett, defendants, resided in Jefferson county.

Attorneys at the hearing indicated the case would be carried to a higher court as soon as a decision had been rendered.

Appeal Probable.

The fact, however, that the court held that the 6,300 miles had been accounted for in the program of the highway board has the effect of nullifying any plans the department had of abandoning the McLean route in favor of the Peach Orchard link, in the opinion of citizens interested in the litigation.

It is considered a foregone conclusion, according to these citizens, that the case will be finally threshed out in the Georgia supreme court. The litigation is the outgrowth of a petition for an injunction filed in March 1927.

Best Democratic Proposal.

The most acceptable proposition that is being discussed in democratic circles is one similar to that which the party adopted with respect to protection and free trade in the platform of 1924.

As revised for the present situation as respects prohibition, the plank would read as follows:

"Resolved, That recognizing that there are in our midst honest but irresponsible differences of opinion with regard to the policy of national prohibition, we remit the discussion of the subject to the people in their congressional districts, and to the decision of the congress thereon, wholly free from executive interference or dictation."

There are very able members of the party who believe that much should be said upon the general issue of prohibition, and that the Houston convention could well adopt such a plank without arousing the belligerent blood of either the dyes or the wets.

It is clearly understood here that if Governor Smith is to be the democratic nominee, as seems inevitable now, the party will have to do to the issue of adopting a prohibition plank directly cross-cutting his well-known views on the universal bone-dry policy.

It is also well considered that whatever radical prohibition votes would be alienated by his views, or by the failure of the party to assume a bone-dry position, the losses would occur in states where they would not prevent the party from getting their electoral votes. That is to say, in the southern solidly democratic states.

Again, it is said by friends of Governor Smith, who stand closest to him as advisers and supporters, that he would heartily approve the adoption of the suggested plank to remit the whole discussion of prohibition issues to the people in their congressional districts.

MISS RUTH CHRISTIAN,
AUTO ACCIDENT
VICTIM, IS DEAD

Miss Ruth Christian, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Christian, of Porterdale, who was injured in an automobile accident Saturday night on the highway between Covington and Conyers, died at Grady hospital Monday morning. The body has been taken to Porterdale for funeral services and interment.

There was no mystery attached to the accident as first reported, according to J. W. Osborn, of Porterdale, whose daughter was one of the occupants of the machine. He stated that the accident occurred about 8:30 o'clock Saturday night and was caused when the car in which his daughter was riding attempted to pass another auto and in doing so figured in a crash with a car coming in the opposite direction.

Believing that a crash was imminent, Miss Christian jumped from the machine and was struck by the other car, just as the two autos collided. The other occupants of the Christian car did not jump and all escaped unhurt. The accident was investigated by Sheriff Cowan of Rockdale. That the Christian car, in addition to the girl who was fatally injured, were Miss Cynthia Osborn, George Kirkley and Butler Norworthy, all of Porterdale.

Frigidaire combines extra value with low price in every model

BEFORE you buy any automatic refrigerator, compare Frigidaire . . . model for model . . . with other makes offered in Atlanta. See for yourself how efficiently Frigidaire freezes ice . . . how quietly it operates . . . how beautiful it is in design and appearance. Then compare prices. You'll find those of Frigidaire are surprisingly low, especially when you consider the extra value General Motors has built into each Frigidaire.

Use all the ice cubes you wish

Consign your ice card to the children's sandpile. You'll never need it again after you have Frigidaire. For here's a mechanism that really does freeze ice! Not frugally. Not at odd times. But actually lots of ice cubes . . . all you can use . . . any time you want them, even in the hottest weather. Frigidaire freezes them quickly and solidly . . . regardless of kitchen heat, or of how much food it also has to refrigerate.

And something else . . . Frigidaire is quiet. It's hardly audible a few feet away. And it stays quiet, year after year in constant service. Its big mechanism is powerful. It's self-oiled and smooth-running. It's all out of sight! There's no chance for dust and grease to accumulate. So you see, Frigidaire is always clean!

Make your ice-box a FRIGIDAIRE
Keep your present ice-box, if it's a good one. But make it a Frigidaire automatic refrigerator. Let us install the Frigidaire mechanism. Its cost is low. And General Motors terms can be arranged to suit your purse. Ask for complete information.

When you buy Frigidaire from us, you deal with a direct factory branch. Our activities are confined strictly to Frigidaire and the assurance of satisfaction to Frigidaire users within our territory. This is important. It means that the Frigidaire Corporation is directly responsible for the dependable performance of every Frigidaire sold by us and our dealers. Should service ever be needed, our factory-trained service force is prepared to give it promptly and efficiently . . . day or night, seven days a week.

AGRICULTURE POST SOUGHT BY ADAMS

G. C. Adams, of Newton county, which he served as a representative in the last legislature, announced Monday as a candidate for state commissioner of agriculture against Eugene

G. C. ADAMS.

Talmadge, the incumbent, subject to the state democratic primary of September 12.

A brief statement, in which Mr. Adams charged Commissioner Talmadge with building a political machine in lieu of serving the farmers, follows:

"I am a candidate for commissioner of agriculture, subject to the democratic white primary of September 12, 1928.

"While I supported Mr. Talmadge in his race for commissioner of agriculture, I have become convinced that he is such a misfit and that, by virtue of his bold attempt to build a greater political machine than that wielded by his opponent in that he has appointed members of the legislature and politicians to the payroll of the farmers' department who are rendering no service to the farmers of Georgia, that this within itself is sufficient reason to relegate him to his law practice at McKee.

"Living upon my 800-acre farm, eight miles in the country from Covington, Newton county, I have been woefully disappointed in the man who made such extravagant claims as to his fitness to hold this high office. My experience as a dirt farmer is taken both from the practical as well as the scientific side of this our most important part of Georgia's life.

"At a later date I shall make further announcement as to my claims to the suffrage of the people."

MITCHELL'S RANCH HOTEL IS LEASED; HOLMES MANAGER

Mitchell's Mountain Ranch hotel, widely-known resort in the north Georgia mountains at Helen, has been leased by W. A. and Charles W. White, its owners, to the Gray Holmes Hotel, Inc., operators of a chain of hotels in Georgia and Florida.

This announcement was made Monday by W. P. Holmes, who will be the new manager of the Mitchell's Ranch hotel. Mr. Holmes said that the hotel has been extensively improved, new furniture having been installed throughout; the structure redecorated, and a magnificent open-air dance pavilion built with a hard wood floor covering 1,200 square feet of space. In addition the hotel's 9-hole golf course has been put in excellent shape for the season, which opened June 2.

California Experts To Study Marketing Of Fruit in Georgia

Marketing of California fruits in Georgia will be studied intensively during the next few months by a representative of the California state department of agriculture, who already has arrived in Atlanta to establish headquarters, it was learned this week at the offices of Eugene Talmadge, commissioner of agriculture.

Harry E. Drobish, special agent in charge of the survey, with a fellow-representative, S. S. Rogers, paid Mr. Talmadge a call and outlined the purpose of their stay in this state.

"We desire to study the conditions under which California products come into the hands of the consumer," Mr. Drobish explained. "We want to know what the packages look like after their trip across the continent. We want to know what the trade thinks about our products."

"Incidentally, we intend to observe the methods followed in Georgia with regard to the packing, shipping, and marketing of fruit, with a view to acquiring information that may benefit growers on the Pacific coast."

Many Pilots To Enter Brunswick's Air Derby

Army, Navy and Private Fliers To Take Part in Dedication of Redfern
Field.

Brunswick, Ga., June 4.—(Special.)—Beiler Blevins, with four Atlanta passengers, will leave for Brunswick Thursday to participate with his Ryan brougham plane in the big air derby dedicating Redfern field on Friday and Saturday. The committee reports program for both days completed and entries are still coming in. Indications are there will be quite a number of private planes flying here with their owner-pilots and passengers as visitors for the two days.

The United States navy will be represented by three UO-1 planes with Lieutenant J. B. Voit in charge and Lieutenants H. S. Duckworth, W. G. Whaley and T. J. Walker as pilots. W. L. Peterson and L. P. Crain, U. S. N., will come as mechanics. The army will be represented by a fast pursuit type plane from Maxwell field, Miss. Angus Mills, Tampa parachute specialist, has been engaged for both days, and promises to amaze the multitudes with her daring air stunts. Miss Gladys Poole, pupil of Atlanta's "ace," Doug Davis, will be another of the aviators present. Miss Poole and Jack McElwaine, parachute jumper, will come down with a squadron of three planes under the leadership of Doug Davis. Approximately $1,000 in prizes besides watches, trophies and other awards offered by Brunswick citizens will be the awards for the various events, which include 30-mile races for five-motored planes, free-for-all races, best aerobatic performances, parachute jumping contests, best all-round flier, model plane flights and other interesting air events.

In addition to the air derby the Brunswick Boat club will stage on Friday afternoon speed boat races, classes B and C, with prizes in each event. Outboard motored boats from other cities are cordially invited to enter these races which will be run on Frederica river near Redfern airport from 4 to 7 p. m., Friday.

A company of national guard troops under Major W. L. Harwell as well as the local post of the American Legion and Boy Scout troops will assist in policing the field, directing traffic parking and controlling the crowds expected here Friday and Saturday. "Bill" Alexander, who has been flying a plane since 1911, pilot of "Miss Brunswick," Redfern field's Waco 10 plane, accompanied by Dr. J. W. Simmons, publicity chairman, has been covering south Georgia with circulars from the air.

Following a brief address and invocation, beautiful sponsors, "Miss Brunswick" and "Miss Glynn," accompanied by their maids of honor, will deposit floral designs at the foot of the flag staff on which the United States ensign will be at half mast. Immediately a score or more planes will leave the field, circle over the waves of the Atlantic about two miles away from the airport, and drop their floral offerings from Redfern's host of friends upon the waters over which he disappeared from mortal sight in an attempted flight from Brunswick to Brazil a little less than a year ago.

On the return of the squadron after this beautiful ceremony the flag will be run up to the peak and one of the most spectacular air derbies arranged in this section will immediately commence with a full program of thrilling and entertaining events from 12 noon until dusk on Friday and Saturday. Clark Howell, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, will be among the speakers on the dedicatory program. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Redfern, of Columbia, S. C., parents of the intrepid young flier, will be present at the opening exercises.

Drenched City Faces Prospect Of More Rain

With more rain headed this way for today from a Texas storm which is moving eastward along the gulf coast, the weather map shows no hope of fair weather for Atlanta in the near future, C. F. von Herrmann, United States meteorologist, said Monday. Except for the first day, June so far has had precipitation on every day, but this is in no way unusual, for June is listed in weather bureau records as a wet month, the weather man said.

June, July and the earlier part of August form one of the real wet seasons of the year, and plenty of rain may well be expected for some time yet if 1928 lives up to normal, the weather man said. The year already has proven itself to be of a damp nature, as the deficit acquired early this year has been made up during the past three months, and the precipitation for the year was 32 of an inch in excess up to Monday morning.

The rainfall for June up to Monday morning was .18 of an inch in excess, a total of .75 of an inch having fallen this month up to Monday morning.

There will be little change in temperature today, the mercury being expected to range between 65 and 80 degrees, Mr. von Herrmann said.

TORNADO STRIKES CANDLER COUNTY

Metter, Ga., June 4.—(7p)—One of the worst tornadoes that has visited this section in a number of years struck here this afternoon about 4 o'clock, doing considerable damage to a big tobacco warehouse, which was under construction.

The framework of this huge structure was almost complete. Twenty-one pieces of steel framing weighing about 21,000 pounds were blown down with most all the wood framing, damaging the building from $3,000 to $5,000.

Both ends of the building had already been sheathed with corrugated tin and all this was completely ruined.

The mass of steel is twisted and bent so it looks like a complete loss. Work will begin tomorrow morning in going over and rebuilding the damaged building.

A regular downpour of rain accompanied the storm and for a while was the heaviest rain ever witnessed here. Whether or not any damage was done to the growing crops has not yet been learned but if it struck the county as it struck this place, considerable damage has been done.

DR. BRICKER SPEAKS AT DAVIS EXERCISES

Dr. L. O. Bricker, pastor of the Peachtree Christian church, was principal speaker Monday at services in honor of Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy, held in the hall of representatives at the state capitol under auspices of Camp No. 159, United Confederate Veterans, and Atlanta chapter, U. D. C.

June 3, the birthday anniversary of the Confederate leader, fell on Sunday this year, and ceremonies were postponed for a day. All departments at the state capitol were closed throughout Monday and banks of the city suspended operation for the holiday.

The memorial program was in charge of Mrs. Stafford Seidell, retiring president of Atlanta chapter, U. D. C. Miss Lillian Henderson, custodian of honor crosses for the chapter, distributed 15 crosses of honor and 19 service crosses to world war veterans descended from Confederate soldiers.

JENKINS' WITHDRAWAL ANNOUNCED BY WALL

J. P. Wall, chairman of the city democratic executive committee, Monday announced that formal withdrawal of W. C. Jenkins as an aspirant for the post as alderman from the seventh ward has been received by him and that there would be no contest in that race.

"Ballots already have been printed for the election and new ones will not be arranged, but election managers will be instructed to disregard the contest in the seventh ward's aldermanic position," Mr. Wall stated. Mr. Jenkins' retirement from the contest leaves Alderman W. Guy Dobbs unopposed for reelection, thus assuring his nomination in the primary Wednesday.

SITE FOR SCHOOL TO BE CONDEMNED

Immediate start of condemnation proceedings to obtain the DePoe property in the fifth ward as the site of a junior high school in the fifth ward was ordered Monday afternoon by city council following a report of W. T. Buchanan, the city's agent, that negotiations with owners of the property in an effort to obtain the site at a reasonable figure had failed.

Council ordered City Attorney James L. Mayson to proceed at once with condemnation. A bond will be posted to guarantee that the city will abide by the decision of the courts in the condemnation proceedings and work will be begun within the next few days, it was said.

Present plans contemplate establishment of portables to house junior high school students and school administration officials have announced that the buildings will be ready for occupancy by the time the 1928-29 school term opens this fall.

ALDERMANIC BOARD APPROVES PAPERS PASSED BY COUNCIL

The aldermanic board Monday afternoon approved all matters submitted to it by the general council of the city, and in addition, voted to set up four per cent for architects' fees on the new city hall.

Amounts set up for the architects' fee is four per cent on $1,250,000, which is in excess of the available funds for the structure. Council, however, is on record as favoring erection of a building which will cost $1,250,000, having agreed to supplement bond money with the additional amount which will be needed.

All the papers will go to Mayor I. N. Ragsdale today for his approval.

VOTE FOR WILLIAM A. HANSELL AND THE PRESENT ORGANIZATION Elect Them On Their RECORD of Honest Service!

A vote for Hansell is ratification of a five-year record of progressive service unparalleled in any 10 years of the previous history of the department.

Do you know that 147 MILES OF PAVING; 135 MILES OF SIDE-WALKS; 102 MILES OF CURBING AND 96 MILES OF SEWERS have been laid in the past 5 years under the present organization and that this record SURPASSES any former 10-YEAR record? Check the RECORDS. They tell FACTS.

Do you know that scores of streets have been made 25% more effective for vehicular travel under the department's past five-year RECORD?

RECORDS show street widening and regrading of Forrest Avenue, Spring Street, Peters Street, Techwood Drive, East Fair, Washington, East Alexander, Luckie, Courtland, and Capitol Avenue. Some are still under construction. A change would imperil those now completed.

Pryor Street and Central Avenue Viaducts are under construction. A change would necessitate familiarizing a NEW corps of engineers with the work and cost thousands of dollars in lost motion.

The McDonough Road Bridge; the Forrest Avenue Extension and Underpass; the Hill Street Bridge; the Berne-Hill Street Underpass; the Magnolia Street Bridge; Confederate Avenue Bridges and many others have been completed under the present organization.

Work on reconstruction of the Mitchell Street Bridge will begin shortly. Bids already have been asked. Work will start in less than 30 days.

HANSELL and his ORGANIZATION have conducted a CLEAN, HONEST and fair campaign predicated on service to the people of Atlanta. They have NOT and will NOT deal in personalities or mud-slinging.

A vote for HANSELL is a vote FOR CONTINUED EFFICIENCY, for SERVICE and HONESTY.

Helen Wills Ascas International Championship To String

Helen Is Now Net Champion In 3 Countries

American Girl Defeats Miss Eileen Bennett in Auteuil Final Match.

New Champions

Auteuil, France, June 4.—(P)—Here are the new tennis champions of France crowned in the international hard court tournament which concluded today: Men's Singles—Henri Cochet, France. Women's Singles—Miss Helen Wills, United States. Men's Doubles—Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, France. Women's Doubles—Miss Eileen Bennett and Mrs. M. Holcroft Watson, England. Mixed Doubles—Miss Eileen Bennett, England, and Henri Cochet, France.

Auteuil, France, June 4.—(P)—America's Helen Wills today became the undisputed women's tennis queen of the entire world by adding the French international hard courts crown to her collection which already includes the English and American titles.

Henri Cochet, of France, qualified as prince consort by winning the men's singles and becoming champion of his own country as well as England. Both Miss Wills and Cochet met worthy adversaries, but won in decisive fashion.

The plucky Miss Bennett, whose play earlier in the tournament stamped her as probably the best woman player in Europe, was no match for the hard-hitting American girl and gave her no more serious opposition than Miss Wills' four antagonists of previous rounds. Like them, Miss Bennett was unable to score more than three games while Miss Wills was making the requisite 12 for a straight set victory.

Miss Wills led throughout the entire match, and when Miss Bennett challenged in the second set by tying the score in games at one-all, the American showed her command of the situation by breaking through in the next game and steadily drawing away.

To win, Miss Wills out-generated and out-guessed as well as outstruck her English rival. When Miss Bennett tried a stratagem and adopted a soft lobbing game, Helen countered in similar fashion, until the French player promptly killed the point with a fast drive.

Early in the second set when Miss Bennett was forcing a tie play, Miss Wills opened up with a burst of hard-hit ground strokes for placement, which brought her point after point. Miss Bennett's last rally came in the seventh game in which she managed to break through, Miss Wills service, but the effort told in the next and final set she was able to score but a single point.

What They Had to Say.—"This was a very enjoyable match," said Miss Bennett, who had defeated philosophically. "It is no disgrace to be beaten by such a wonderful player as Helen," was her comment. Cochet's victory was won in characteristic fashion after he had dropped the first set to his machine-like opponent, speeding up his game from set to set, and varying his sharp cross-court returns with perfect trap shots which just cleared the net, he led the steady LaCoste on the run throughout the last half of the match.

The defeat was a severe blow to LaCoste, who has received in big time play since Bill Johnston, the American, sent him in four sets in the Davis cup challenge round of 1926.

SEASON OPENS AT ARLINGTON; RECORDS FALL

New York, June 4.—(P)—The Roncos stable, Griss captured the fashion stake, four and a half furlongs, at Belmont park today but was forced to break the track record to do it. The two-year-old daughter of Pur-chase and Burtin, a 133 to 1 shot, led all the way but just barely nosed out spire at the finish line. At-lantis, the favorite, was third. On-a's time was 51 seconds flat, eclipsing the old record by two-fifths of a second. The victory was worth $6,475 to the Hancock stable.

At Arlington, Double Heart broke the track record with a victory in the fourth race, $1,200 for two-year-olds over five furlongs. Double Heart covered the distance in one minute. Coal Black was second and Chieftain third. The $5,000 add-on American premier handicap for three-year-olds and up went to Florence Mills, with Flat Iron second and Leigh Olin third. Florence Mills ran the mile in 1:29.2-5.

More than 20,000 fans saw the race which formally inaugurated the huge racing plant, improved and extended at a cost of $4,000,000. The king's birthday handicap, for Canadian bred three-year-olds and over the mile and one-sixteenth circuit, feature at Thoroughbred, went to Nealon Key with Beau of the West second and Perlethips third. The time was 1:36.1-5.

At Fairmount, Sister Ship won the $1,000 Maplewood purse for three-year-olds and up. Broadside was second and Aviator third. Sister Ship covered the six furlongs in 1:15.

Maxie Rosenbloom Kayoed in Ninth

London, June 4.—(P)—Tommy Milligan, of Scotland, former welterweight champion of Great Britain, knocked out Maxie Rosenbloom in the ninth round of their bout at Albert hall tonight. Rosenbloom had won the first eight rounds of the fight, and the Scotch middleweight launched a strenuous attack in the ninth. A hard blow landed near Maxie's belt and he collapsed. He was unable to rise after the referee's count of ten. The loser's seconds claimed a foul, but the judges declared the blow fair as a physician who examined Rosenbloom in his dressing room found no evidence that he had been fouled. The bout had been scheduled for 15 rounds at catchweights.

Chicago, June 4.—(P)—Ernie Peters, Chicago flyweight, won a verdict over Henry Cullen, Chicago, in six rounds at 112 pounds in the wind-up of the White City fight card tonight. Louis La Valle, Anderson, Ind., welterweight, defeated Tony Sanders, of Chicago, in another six-round, scoring four knockdowns. Johnny De Corsey, St. Paul, won from Jackie Moore, of Chicago, in six rounds at 145 pounds.

London, June 4.—(P)—Battling for the bantamweight championship of Great Britain, Kid Patterson, of Bethnal Green, knocked out Kid Nicholson, of Leeds, in the twelfth round of a 20-round bout at the National Sporting club tonight.

A Twin Win. West Palm Beach, Fla., June 4.—(P)—After losing out West Palm Beach, 3 to 1, on three hits in the first game, St. Petersburg came back in the seven-inning second tilt of a double-header and won, 4 to 2.

Score by innings: R. H. E. St. P. 2, 10, 0, 0, 0—3. 3. 1. W. P. Beach, 100, 0, 0, 0—1. 6. 1. C. Coates, Hodges, and Doyle; Brewer and Lawrence.

Second Game. R. H. E. St. P. 3, 1, 0, 0, 0—1. 4. 2. 4. W. P. Beach, 102, 0, 0, 0—2. 4. 1. C. Coates, Hodges, and Doyle; Brewer and Lawrence.

DOWN THE LINE

WITH W. O. MCGEEHAN

THE ESSENTIAL CUSTOMERS. Without knowing, or even caring particularly, whether or not Mr. C. C. Pyle's Aching Dog Caravan is the financial flop the boys claim, it strikes me that Mr. Pyle has been maligned to a certain extent. He has been heralded as a business man who could extract dollars from football, tennis and feet where others either had failed or did not even suspect the a profit existed.

Yet Mr. Pyle seems to have made an elemental mistake in the management of the Aching Dog Caravan. He made no real provisions for the trapping of the customers, and any promoter will tell you that first of all you must have customers in a place to take them. Consider Mr. John Ringling and his manner in which he handles his circus. It is true that Mr. Ringling has his circus parades in the various towns but the parades are of short duration and serve to excite the imagination as to what is going to happen when the caravan gets under the big tent.

Mr. Pyle's Transcontinental race had to be all circus parade. The prospective customer realizes that nothing more interesting than the parade itself will be seen when the Aching Dog Caravan gets under the big tent. All of the circus parade formed on the road and in view of anybody who cared to look. The barefooted runners already have run the length of the continent and other human prodigies already have shot the works, as the boys say. Anything that happens within the caravan might announce as the real show starts, already has happened. The big show, the Aching Dog Caravan, has come and gone.

Perhaps everybody has done Mr. Pyle wrong in the first place. It may have been all along that he wanted to stage the big show for the sake of staging it. If so, it has been a mild success, but the boys insist that the motive behind it was commercialism.

If this is true, Mr. Pyle forgot to make provisions for the first essential to a big show, the cash customers, or he made the other mistake of counting the customers before they were ready to pay with the cash. He is not the first promoter who has made the mistake of believing that the show is the important thing, but that the legend was that Mr. Pyle was too shrewd to make any promoting mistakes.

One must have cash customers in the first place, then one must have some sort of place into which the customers can be herded, passing through turnstiles, and then one must leave their money at the box office. If Colonel Jacob Ruppert, for instance, did not have these details attended to, the New York Yankees would have been a deficit.

If Mr. Rickard had not made provisions for the customers, the customers on Soldier Field, Chicago, the Battle of the Slightly Less Than Three Millions would have taken in less than the boys say is to be expected by Mr. Pyle for the Aching Dog Caravan. But Mr. Rickard always counts his customers before he starts promoting a prizefight. There are times when he is over optimistic, but he realizes that the cash customer is the important thing. Colonel Hillinghouse, who owned the Chicago Cubs, used to call the "bull" works of professional sport.

Mr. Pyle seems to have pulled a "bone" out of the bag. He has been equaled only by Mr. Ziegfeld staging a matinee of the "Follies" in Central park in advance of the opening night then expecting the customers to fill the house on the first night. It never occurred to Mr. Rickard to exhibit the great Tunnay-Dempsey drama in various towns throughout the country with the belief that this would draw the interest and draw customers for the finish at Chicago.

You have to get a customer's money to get his money. When he is disillusioned or two and he cannot be taken. The idea that Mr. Pyle's caravan seemed magnificent in the first place, but the more practical showmen began to ask the question: "What is he going to get for the second time this year?"

The thing foremost in the mind of a practical promoter. The only answer seemed to be "Leave that to Pyle." It was pointed out that Mr. Pyle was able to extract profits from lawn tennis, which never had been able to show itself before, and which was considered as one of the unassailable amateur sports. It was shown in addition that Mr. Pyle had converted that ballyhoo of Illinois into some substantial profits.

For a time the United States Tennis association began to regard Mr. Pyle as a menace of no small proportions. At the mention of his name they would rush all their sincere pure amateur tennis players to cover, and call out the reserves to guard the tennis stadium at Forest Hills.

In the colleges the guardians of intercollegiate football considered Pyle as the Atilla or the Genghis Khan, or what have you, of the game. He was suspected of having traps set for all of the football players who could make five yards in a game. Mr. Pyle fostered the notion. He announced that he would continue to build up professional tennis until it became quite as fixed an industry. He said that he was in the professional football business to stay. He was building up a sporting industry that practically would obliterate amateurism. The guardians of amateurism took it all as gospel and wondered what could be done about the terrible Mr. Pyle.

But at the current writing it is quite apparent that Mr. Pyle has suffered a lapse of memory so far as tennis is concerned, and when professional football is mentioned some of Mr. Pyle's subscribers tear their hair and utter skill squawks of anguish. "IT MAY BE FOR YEARS." There were some evidences of panic toward the finish of the Aching Dog Caravan. I do not mean the murmurs of the skeptical members of the caravan, but the panic of the men who were to be paid for the prize money and began to wonder just what date had been set for pay day. Mr. Pyle declared this necessary spirit and announced that everything would be all right.

The chief evidence that the show was not going over in a financial way was when Mr. Pyle summoned his leading man, Mr. Red Grange, to make an appearance with the troupe. There are stories to the effect that Mr. Pyle's assistant, Mr. William Pickens, was coming to France in a motor to have Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the prima donna of Mr. Pyle's tennis show, to the rescue.

THE MORAL, IF ANY. Perhaps the plight of Pyle will be a lesson to other promoters, but I don't it. A promoter has to be an optimist and optimism is ineradicable. The average promoter can take considerable punishment in the region of the bank roll because, inevitably, it is up by somebody else.

Bout Rained Out. Boston, June 4.—(United News.) The scheduled 16-round bout between James Maloney, of South Boston, and Jack de Mave, of New York, tonight was postponed to Tuesday on account of rain.

RULING MADE BY ALEX GIVES B. H. S. MEET

Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, has issued the following statement in regard to the controversy caused in the recent city prep swimming meet held at the Atlanta Athletic club pool in which Tech High was awarded the championship.

Coach Alexander, arbiter of the prep league, decided "That the two boys who had three false starts in the 25-yard free-style should have been disqualified. I therefore rule that the points they scored in this 25-yard swim be thrown out of the final score in the prep swimming meet."

With the announcement of this ruling, the corrected score would give the victory to Boys' High with a total of 37 points. Tech High, being governed by Coach Alexander's ruling, would have only 34 points.

Under this edict, McNamara, of Tech High, winner of the 25-yard free-style, would be disqualified, as would Fain of Marietta. Boys' High had only two entrants left in the meet and annexed first and second places in the disputed event.

FRENCH COLT BEING PRIMED FOR BIG RACE

Epsom, England, June 4.—(P)—The frantic thousands of fans who will swarm the downs this Wednesday for the English derby may see an international turf struggle for honors in England's most popular racing classic.

The French colt, the crack French three-year-old, has been retired from the grand prix in order that he may concentrate all his graceful strength in a gallant effort to win the British classic.

The French colt's owner, Jacques Quittouze, having no stone unturned to prepare his four-footed speedster for his best performance at Epsom, Palais Royal II is to be ridden by Jockey Allard, a stranger to the Derby course.

To win the derby, Palais Royal II must have to beat the English favorite, Fairway, of Lord Derby's stable. Fairway is rated as a classier machine with good speed and superior stamina. In the mile and a half, run over the historic Downs, Lord Derby's strong-hearted animal, many experts hold, ought to come home in less than 3 minutes.

Fairway's closest rival in expert opinion is Flamingo, owned by Sir Launceston Plunket.

The Agnès, Indian potentate and sportsman, has a pair of colts in Ranjit Singh and Buland which are rated as moderate favorites. Lord Astor, whose entries in the past have finished second in five Derbys, but never first, is not particularly hopeful of his own chances. He is given only an outside chance in the popular classic.

Among the candidates, which have strong sentimental backing—are Lord Dewar's Sunny Trace, sired by Agnès' Trace and bred to "Stay"; Lord Minto's, a moderate favorite, a sleek three-year-old of Lord Rosebery's string.

The PORTLIGHT

THE DURABLE SEX. Some non-combatant a few days ago offered the statement that while women are improving along all lines of sport, they have yet to show anything approaching the durability of the other sex.

"This is due," the critic announces, "to the higher nervous tension of the ladies and their inability to meet the same nervous strain through a number of years of competition."

Yet in 1909 a Miss Dorothy Campbell won the British women's championship in golf, and nineteen years later, a few days ago, the same lady, known as Mrs. Dorothy Hurd, went to the semi-final round before rain and wind stopped her match.

Also in 1915, which seems to be some 13 years ago, a Miss Molla Bjurstedt won the women's tennis championship of the United States, and the same lady, now Mrs. Molla Mallory, is still a worthy competitor for any champion to face, and if it were not for the unusual power and skill of Helen Wills, Mrs. Mallory would be a strong championship possibility.

It has been said before that the nerve systems of women are closer to the surface than the nerve systems of men, and the former are, therefore, more inclined toward the jumping pulse. But the story of competition doesn't carry this idea along the narrow road of fact. Women seem to meet emergencies and high pressure in competition about the same as men, and their nervous systems appear to be just as well lined with durable fiber.

Joie Ray at Amsterdam. The Finns, through Kolehmainen and Stenroos, have been dominating the Olympic marathon for a long time, but it will be harder going this next time over the long hike with an entry named Joie Ray in the midst of the hurdle. Most marathons have been a test of endurance. By his last start Ray has shown that he hopes to make the next one a test of endurance and speed combined. He has shown that he can set a certain pace and hold it below any time yet known to the Big Stag, and from a great miler he has the chance to become the greatest marathon runner of all time, not even barring the ancient Greek who started the habit.

The nineteenth hole is still the toughest water hazard on any course. The Stag School. Dear Sir: Alonzo Stag, the veteran Chicago coach, points out with some pride that almost every college track and field star of the last 20 years first gained recognition in the Stag interscholastic meet.

It was at the Stag meet that such men as the Loomis brothers, Harry Goetz, Ira Davenport, Sherman Higgins, first gained fame. Of the current college stars, Eric Kreuz, the Stanford sophomore, who recently threw the discus 101 feet and put the shot 49 feet, was a winner in the Chicago field, John Kuck, of Kansas, won the Stag shot put in 1924 and 1925, and was high point man in the latter year.

Billy Cox, of Penn State; Tom Chivers, of Oklahoma; Virgil Gist, of Chicago; Ed Walker, of Northwestern, and Babe Cuhel, of Iowa, are just a few of the other current stars who have been in the Old Man's meet for schoolboys. —L. A. V.

Slipping It to Carrigan

Dear Sir: What do you say now? Isn't Bill Carrigan the best manager of them all? He has been leading his team to a place in the first division, when all the smart guys picked him for the cellar again. It's not a great feat, but why old Willie has imbued it with the winning spirit, and is developing a fine pitching and catching staff. Bill will finish better than eighth this year and will be in the battle for the pennant before many months. Forget about McDew and Mack for a while and give Carrigan credit.

TODAY'S GOLF MENU.

"I am one of the unfortunate sufferers," writes M. H. L., "with the habit of starting the down swing before the back swing is completed. I know this is a fault and a bad one, but I cannot get it out of my head. Can I correct it?"

I know two or three fine line players who corrected this fault by pausing for half a second at the top of the swing. They first made sure of finishing the back swing. Then, for an instant, there was a distinct pause at the top of the down swing. Mac Smith, for example, does that with his putter. There is a distinct stop on the back swing before the forward stroke begins. There are other good golfers who correct the above fault by making the hands travel several inches higher on the back swing before starting the down swing. As a rule, the golfer who starts the down swing too quickly lacks at least six inches of finishing the back swing. By forcing his hands higher he comes to the finish of the first movement without the habit of suddenly lunging at the ball ahead of schedule. The down swing is rarely worth anything unless the back swing is first completed in the right way. It is important to make a habit of the right back swing, fully completed, before the next movement starts.

Hornsby and Cobb Put in Good Day While Others Rest

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. All but two of the Big Six were idle by rain yesterday, but these two, Rogers Hornsby and Ty Cobb, did a full day's work on the ball field. Both hit safely twice in four times at bat and in a large measure were responsible for the victories of their teams.

Hornsby broke up a tie game with Cincinnati by driving out a homer in the last half of the ninth inning after Sisler had singled, to give the Braves a 3-2 victory. Cobb started off with a single and a triple in the first two innings, which drove in three of the Athletics' six runs and brought the veteran outfielder back into the 300 class.

Richards Sees Great Future For Boy Stars

Youngsters Counted on To Carry U. S. to Victory in Cup Play.

BY VINCENT RICHARDS. American Professional Tennis Champion and Former Davis Cup Star. (Special to The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

Chicago, June 4.—As was more or less expected by the tennis critics, the American Davis team, led by Captain Tilden, gained the right to challenge in Europe next month by defeating the Japanese team here in a three-day semi-final match.

From the standpoint of competition there was nothing startling in any of the matches, due mostly to the fact that the American players far outclassed the little men from the Orient. One or two facts, however, made their impression on me as I watched the matches, and through the eyes of the splendid crowd of the Chicago Town and Tennis club.

Most important of all was the fact that in George Lott and John Hennessey the United States has two boys who have greatly improved their games over the form they displayed last year.

Make no mistake about these two young men. They are playing championship tennis. They are going to be important factors in the coming European invasion.

The one outstanding improvement in Hennessey's game is his steadiness. He has learned in the short space of one year how to keep the ball in play. That little asset is going to mean a great deal to him this summer.

Lott, too, has added one or two things that have raised the standard of his play. He is hitting harder off the ground, and seems to have settled down more in temperament.

Unquestionably either Hennessey or Lott will be used in one of the singles matches abroad, and I predict that no matter which plays he will make it decidedly interesting for his opponent.

Another factor brought home forcibly to all those watching the play is that in "Junior" Coen the United States has a future world's champion. This young man from Kansas City had his first taste of international singles play here, and the splendid manner in which he turned in a four-set match against the Japanese against whom he will be in the near future.

Coen has a wonderfully developed ground game which he uses from the baseline, and at the top of the net play, but for some reason hard to explain, he seems reluctant to go up to the net himself.

Time and time again in his match here against the Japanese he let opportunities go by to get up close for a killing shot at the net. That is one thing he will have to remedy, and undoubtedly with his natural playing ability he will be able to do this.

Men of the caliber of LaCoste, Cochet or Borotra would step in and drive his second ball for an ace. However, Coen is only 16, and has plenty of time to improve his game.

Tilden, in his matches here, was not excited enough for me to tell whether he is the Tilden of old. He still has all the amazing speed on his strokes, and retains that subtle court craft which placed him at the top of the tennis world for seven years. But whether he can stand up under the load of handling a five-set match, is hard for me to say.

His singles matches here against the Japanese were not a sufficient test for me to say that the United States can count on "Big Bill" definitely in the European invasion. He may be called upon to play two singles in addition to the doubles match while abroad, and that, believe me, is a real tennis assignment.

The difficulty facing the men who run the destinies of the Lawn Tennis association is whether to put Tilden only in the singles and allow the doubles assignment to be taken care of by the younger players. That will have to be decided in the near future, and unless I miss my mark it will be a mighty important decision. It may mean the winning or the losing of the cup.

'The Ghost Train' Provides Chills, Thrills at Atlanta

Receipt for producing nightmares: Go to see "The Ghost Train," at the Atlanta theater, eat a waltz rabbit, and then go to bed. You'll have 'em, all right.

As I write this I dread the ordeal of sleeping the night through, for, along with many other Atlantans who saw "The Ghost Train" at its opening Monday night, I know that my dreams will be full of a rushing, rattling, shrieking train which thunders on toward the open bridge, while the ghost of Tad Holmes lies on the platform outside of the waiting room with a red lantern in his hand.

"The Ghost Train," with its scene laid in a miserable little waiting room of the railway station at Clear Lake, Maine, is a melodrama which gives an ideal vehicle for the talents of Charles Ray, Felix Krembs, Isabel O'Madigan, and others of the Robert Williams players. There are intensely dramatic moments, when the hair on your neck fairly crawls, and when cold chills chase up and down your spine, but there is no such thing as relief which keeps the audience from crawling over the seats in a mad rush for the exits.

Fear Plays Part

Fear plays a big part in "The Ghost Train"—the fear of the supernatural and something which you can't see, though you feel its presence. Nina Penn, who plays "Peggy Murdoch," gave a shriek as she saw a face at the window, and so suddenly and so unexpectedly did it come that most members of the first night audience shrieked in chorus with her.

Felix Krembs, as the irrepressible "Eddie Deskin," is the hit of the show with his kiddish pranks, while his attentions upon the spinstery "Miss Bourne," played by Isabel O'Madigan, cracked many a rib Monday night. Barbara Jo Allen gives a thrilling presentation of the role of "Julia Price," and Louis Lytton is admirable as "Sam Hodelkin," the stationmaster. Charles Ray and Nina Penn furnish a delightful but scared homecoming couple, and Neal Corns and Betty Alden are excellent as the veteran married pair. Richmond Kent and Joseph Selman, and "Herbert Price" and "John Sterling," respectively, enhance the play's entertainment value, while Edwin Maxwell plays "Jackson," the detective, with skill.

The denouement is a complete surprise, explaining the "ghost train" to anyone's satisfaction. Go to see "The Ghost Train" by all means, but be prepared with a bottle of heart stimulant.

Reckless affair of love depicted in Metro picture

Clive Brook and Jacqueline Logan, starring in "Midnight Madness," at the Metropolitan theater this week, offer a film that embraces all of the requisites of an interesting picture.

"Midnight Madness," as the name suggests, depicts a reckless love affair, from its embryonic stages to its consummation. The film has moments of dramatic suspense, scenes of adventure and unusually gripping action. In fact it is the kind of picture that keeps the spectator almost hypnotized, wondering just what will be the outcome of the extremely complicated plot.

The story relates the matrimonial intentions of a poor but beautiful New York girl who has vowed to marry money. After planning and scheming, she meets a young millionaire, a very wealthy diamond merchant. She entices him with her irresistible affections and in a moment of midnight madness under a beaming moon she is successful in her plan. They are married. But in the meantime the man learns that his future wife is not a virgin, but a woman who has been married before. Consequently he formulates a plan to really win the affections of his fair lover. And he is quite successful.

Three Vitaphone acts of unusual merit add materially to the success of the program offered by the Metropolitan this week. Mae McKay in "Smiley California" immediately meets the approval of the audience. The Collocation Four from Washington State is very good. Gene Morgan, a western comedian of talent, directs his orchestra capably and scores a tremendous hit.

With 12 cadets receiving diplomas and a large number of certificates and special awards, the 25th annual commencement exercises of Marist college took place Monday night at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium, with James A. Hollomon, of the Constitution, delivering the address to the graduates.

The following received diplomas: High school, Lewis R. Brine, Rufus McK. Darby, John E. Fain, James A. Harvey, Jr., John N. Lyle, Herman H. Lewis, Eugene A. Murphy, Jr., Russell R. Timmons, Richard H. Voorhis and Harold E. Williams. Certificates for the completion of the commercial course were awarded to Charles Doolittle and Marion Whaley. Final students' certificates in business writing were given by the A. N. Palmer company to Julius Hoffman, Vincent McMahon and Robert Peck. Cadet Eugene A. Murphy, Jr., delivered the valedictory for the senior class.

Mr. Hollomon, in his address to the graduates, stressed the superiority of the scholar in modern life. He used as a text the statement of the unlettered captain of the guard, Marcellus, in Shakespeare's Hamlet, when he says to Horatio, "Speak to him (the ghost), thou art a scholar." As the scholar is best fitted to adduce a ghost, the most fearsome of medieval objects, so a modern scholar is fitted to vanquish the present day ghosts, intolerance and ignorance. Mr. Hollomon told the graduates:

"Education I binds Truth. Truth," said Mr. Hollomon, "needs to be unbound by education. The great renaissance was the result of the education of the people. Popular education is the bulwark of a nation's greatness, and it is the task of popular education to build the youth of humanity."

The following awards were given: The J. J. Haverly Medal—Donated by J. J. Haverly for the highest standing during the four years of the high school course. Won by Captain Eugene A. Murphy, Jr.

The Annie T. Coleman Medal—Donated by Annie T. Coleman for declaration in the high school department. Won by Captain James Harvey, Jr.

The Robert J. Morris Medal—Donated by Robert J. Morris for election in the high school department. Won by Cadet Vincent McMahon.

The J. J. Haverly Medal—Donated by J. J. Haverly for the best essay. Won by Cadet Eugene A. Murphy, Jr.

The E. McKee Medal—Donated by E. McKee for rapid calculation in the high school department. Won by Cadet Eugene A. Murphy, Jr.

Reckless affair of love depicted in Metro picture

Clive Brook and Jacqueline Logan, starring in "Midnight Madness," at the Metropolitan theater this week, offer a film that embraces all of the requisites of an interesting picture.

"Midnight Madness," as the name suggests, depicts a reckless love affair, from its embryonic stages to its consummation. The film has moments of dramatic suspense, scenes of adventure and unusually gripping action. In fact it is the kind of picture that keeps the spectator almost hypnotized, wondering just what will be the outcome of the extremely complicated plot.

The story relates the matrimonial intentions of a poor but beautiful New York girl who has vowed to marry money. After planning and scheming, she meets a young millionaire, a very wealthy diamond merchant. She entices him with her irresistible affections and in a moment of midnight madness under a beaming moon she is successful in her plan. They are married. But in the meantime the man learns that his future wife is not a virgin, but a woman who has been married before. Consequently he formulates a plan to really win the affections of his fair lover. And he is quite successful.

Three Vitaphone acts of unusual merit add materially to the success of the program offered by the Metropolitan this week. Mae McKay in "Smiley California" immediately meets the approval of the audience. The Collocation Four from Washington State is very good. Gene Morgan, a western comedian of talent, directs his orchestra capably and scores a tremendous hit.

With 12 cadets receiving diplomas and a large number of certificates and special awards, the 25th annual commencement exercises of Marist college took place Monday night at the Atlanta Woman's Club auditorium, with James A. Hollomon, of the Constitution, delivering the address to the graduates.

The following received diplomas: High school, Lewis R. Brine, Rufus McK. Darby, John E. Fain, James A. Harvey, Jr., John N. Lyle, Herman H. Lewis, Eugene A. Murphy, Jr., Russell R. As the scholar is best fitted to adduce a ghost, the most fearsome of medieval objects, so a modern scholar is fitted to vanquish the present day ghosts, intolerance and ignorance. Mr. Hollomon told the graduates:

"Education I binds Truth. Truth," said Mr. Hollomon, "needs to be unbound by education. The great renaissance was the result of the education of the people. Popular education is the bulwark of a nation's greatness, and it is the task of popular education to build the youth of humanity."

The following awards were given: The J. J. Haverly Medal—Donated by J. J. Haverly for the highest standing during the four years of the high school course. Won by Captain Eugene A. Murphy, Jr.

Georgia Formally Represented At Rhododendron Festival

Asheville, N. C., June 4.—Georgia was formally represented by Miss Frances Phillips, of Louisville, in the opening event tonight of Asheville's Rhododendron festival—the coronation ball at Grove Park Inn—when, as sponsor for her state, Miss Phillips, chosen for that honor through the Constitution contest, was maid of honor to the Rhododendron queen. The ball was a brilliant one, assembling visitors from every southern state and some from the north, come to enjoy Asheville's gala week in celebration of the establishment of a national park in the great Smoky mountains.

The lieutenant-governor of North Carolina, J. Elmer Long, of Durham, was the governor's official representative in the coronation ceremonies, and with Mrs. Long will remain at the Inn through the week to take part in the festival program. The mayor of Asheville, Gallatin Roberts, crowned the queen, Miss Rose Corrigan, of Asheville, chosen for royal honors for candidates of youth and loveliness put forward by 35 women's federated clubs in Asheville. Miss Corrigan was the candidate of the American Legion auxiliary. With her mother she is resident at Grove Park Inn for festival week, as Miss Phillips and sponsors for six other states.

The sponsors for the state of North Carolina is Miss Julia Webb, daughter of Charles A. Webb, copublisher of the Asheville Citizen, and she is also the official representative of the junior league in the queen's court.

Other Sponsors.—The representatives of their states, commissioned by their governors, are, besides Miss Phillips, Miss Louise Hinton, of Tusculum, for Alabama; Miss Anna Bruce Boyd, of Knoxville, for Tennessee; Miss Laura Emerson, of Clearwater, for Florida; Miss Nancy Jones, of Lexington, for Kentucky; Miss Charles Vesta Culpepper, of Wiggins, for Mississippi; Miss Emma Warfield, of Cumberland, for Maryland; Miss Mary Gilder, of Wylie, of Lancaster, for South Carolina; Miss Opal Claypoole, of Logan, for West Virginia; Miss Dorothy Holland, of Hot Springs, for Arkansas; Miss Helen Andrews, of McAlester, for Oklahoma; Mrs. Virginia Garrett Grubbs, of Richmond, for Virginia, and Miss Cora Arch, of Cherokee, for the Eastern Band of Indians, the Cherokees, who have their reservation in the foothills of the great Smokies.

These young ladies, with the 35 Asheville beauties who had taken part in the queen's contest, were the maids of honor, and each had selected her own cavalier. Preceded by 10 little flower girls, they presented a pageant of youthful charm, as they traversed the great length of the "big room," whose walls of rough hewn rock suggested a mountain setting for elaborate decorations in rhododendron—artificial. No growing blooms will be cut for the festival, but visitors will be taken on scheduled tours throughout the week to see them in the mountains.

Stage Erected.

A stage had been erected at the far end of the room, hung with the rhododendron colors, pink and white and green, and as the triumphal march from Aida, played by an orchestra and the hotel's great organ, neared its end, the queen and her consort, Bingham McKee, with their entourage, were enthroned there. The coronation ceremony completed, the royal pair opened the ball, and general dancing continued until midnight.

Preceding the ball, a number of dinner parties were staged in the inn's dining room, of which the largest was that given by Miss Mary Louise Becht, of Cincinnati, who entertained 25 of Asheville's college set as a farewell, after spending the winter at the inn. A dinner concert was given by organ and orchestra.

Miss Phillips and the other sponsors will be the honor guests at a luncheon at the Woman's club Wednesday, given by the chamber of commerce. Two hundred reservations have been made. The sponsors will attend the pageant of the nations, the mountain folk festival, sports tournaments and carnivals, and finally will themselves be featured in the Rhododendron ball and pageant of the nations. Dr. Edward King is chairman of the festival committee from the Georgia state society, the members of which will form for a special reception and entertainment committee to look after visitors from Georgia. His headquarters will be the Hotel Vanderbilt.

A Vulture On The Dinner Table

Suppose this earnest bird should alight on your dinner table, clawing at choice, dainty dishes with its repulsive feet? Think of having a visitor who frequents the most foul recesses of the earth to rest on your arms and face tonight.

Yet thousands of people daily undergo similar harrowing experiences if they only had the power to see things as they really are. If you would examine a common house fly under a magnifying glass you would find it fully as gruesome in appearance and habits as the vulture.

The havoc that flies wreak on health yearly in carrying diseases from ill persons and unclean objects to well, strong people is inconceivable. Yet most people regard flies only as annoyances instead of the deadliest enemies of mankind.

Kill-Ko is science's new way of dealing quick, sure death to flies and all other insect pests. Its vapor gas seeps into the cracks and crevices where they live, and yet is harmless to humans, animals, furniture and fabrics. Priced 50c and 75c at your drug or grocery store. WOUNDED BISHOP REGAINS SENSES

Charleston, S. C., June 4.—(AP)—Following an operation for the removal of a bullet, the Right Reverend William A. Guerry, bishop of the South Carolina diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church, who was shot today by the Reverend J. H. Woodward, 66, retired clergyman of the diocese, regained consciousness late tonight in a hospital here, but his condition still is regarded as somewhat critical.

After shooting the bishop during a conference in his office in the diocesan headquarters, the Reverend Woodward turned the revolver upon himself, inflicting a wound from which he died a few minutes later at a hospital.

Reacts Favorably.

Bishop Guerry was unconscious for several hours after the shooting, but "reacted favorably," Dr. R. S. Gathcart, his physician, reported, to the operation. The bullet was lodged in the left chest.

Before the shooting an suicide it is believed there was a discussion of the retirement age of clergymen and some talk of finances, Woodward telling Miss Henrietta P. Jervy, private secretary of the bishop, that he wished to see his superior about the retirement age of ministers. A check for $500 made out to Woodward and signed by Bishop Guerry was found in the room after the shooting.

Says Man Is Crazy.

"This man is crazy and no telling what will happen," he told Miss Jervy. It was only a few minutes before Miss Jervy heard two shots and when she entered the room where the men were she found both on the floor. Woodward held a smoking pistol in his hand.

The Rev. Mr. Woodward was for 20 years a minister in the South Carolina diocese. He was known as a man with fixed opinions on the negro question in particular. In 1918 when Bishop Guerry sought a suffragan bishop for work among the negroes of the diocese, the minister made a number of attacks on him through public statements and speeches.

While serving as pastor of an Episcopal church at Bluffton, S. C., he shot a negro burglar. He was exonerated following the killing, residents

The General Electric Refrigerator meets these requirements exactly—with it you can forget your refrigeration problem. The General Electric Refrigerator maintains the prescribed temperature automatically, day and night, year after year.

And you will find to your surprise that with a General Electric Refrigerator it's just as easy to make a luscious mousse as it is to make an uninteresting rice pudding! You will find that an aspic is a welcome change from soup—and less fuss to prepare.

In a word, the drudgery of planning menus is now spiced with the thrill of developing new surprises. Leftovers come back to the table in unsuspected disguises. Even ordinary salads and fruits become crisper, better-flavored when they are thoroughly chilled in this new, revolutionary electrical servant.

The machinery is located up and away from floor dirt and sealed in a steel casing. The circulation of air through the coils prevents dust from settling. There is no oil anywhere to catch dust—it never has to be oiled.

Important, too, to every woman is the fact that the cabinets are so substantial, so attractive and so sanitary. The exterior and interior are as easily washed as a china dish—just wipe over the exterior with a damp cloth to keep the cabinets bright and glistening.

We would like to have you visit one of our display rooms, allow us to explain the many other interesting features of this outstanding product.

And with all these features, the General Electric Refrigerator is priced within your means—especially with our remarkable long period, easy payment plan.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

ONE NIGHT BILLY CODY AND HIS PARTNER, DAVE HARRINGTON, HAD JUST CRAWLED INTO THEIR BUNKS WHEN A DREADFUL UPROAR SUDDENLY AROSE OUTSIDE IN THE CORRAL. DAVE SEIZED A RIFLE AND HURRIED OUT OF DOORS.

DASHING INTO THE LITTLE ENCLOSURE, HE FOUND A BIG BEAR KILLING ONE OF THE OXEN. THE YOUTH WAS TOO LATE TO SAVE THE OX, BUT FIRED AT THE INTRUDER, INFLECTING A SLIGHT WOUND.

Buffalo Bill, Scout of Scouts—Part XX.

An Adventure With a Bear.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

MAD WITH PAIN, THE HUGE ANIMAL TURNED TO ATTACK ITS ASSAILANT. BEFORE DAVE COULD RELOAD, THE ANGRY BEAR WAS ALMOST UPON HIM. THE YOUTH WAS CORNERED AND COULD NOT RETREAT.

IN THE NICK OF TIME, BILLY CAME RUNNING FROM THE DUGOUT, AND SEEING HIS FRIEND'S PERIL, TOOK QUICK AIM AND FIRED. LUCKILY FOR DAVE, THE BULLET STRUCK A VITAL SPOT AND THE BEAR ROLLED OVER DEAD.
